

Measures of Dispersion are used to represent the scattering of data. These are the numbers that show the various aspects of the data spread across various parameters.

Let's

